

Challenge to encourage Houston-area water conservation starts today!

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Houston, TX – June 4, 2018 – Today, Galveston Bay Foundation, in partnership with the Woodlands Joint Powers Agency and the City of Pearland, is launching the 2018 Houston Cities H2O Challenge as part of a regional effort to conserve our water supplies. The Challenge is a friendly water conservation competition designed to engage Houston-area residents and businesses in water conservation.

Because Houston and its adjacent cities are growing at an unprecedented rate and are expected to double their population in the next 40 years, fresh water from our aquifers and rivers will be in high demand. Galveston Bay depends on fresh water flowing from our rivers. Water conservation is the most cost-effective way to ensure that we will have sufficient water supplies for Houston-area residents and the environment.

The Houston Cities H2O Challenge invites all Houston-area residents and businesses (including organizations) to pledge today to conserve water for the Bay through various actions, such as tracking water usage or learning how to efficiently water outdoor landscapes. By conserving water, residents can help to protect, preserve and enhance Galveston Bay as a healthy and productive place for generations to come.

The Houston Cities H2O Challenge will run from June 4, 2018 to September 28, 2018 at 12 p.m. (CST). Galveston Bay Foundation will recognize winning cities, residents and businesses at the Bike Around the Bay dinner on October 20, 2018 at Moody Gardens in Galveston, Texas. The three cities with most pledges will win the challenge; one resident and one business from each winning city will be selected through a random drawing and will receive a prize.

Residents and businesses from the following cities are invited to participate and take the pledge to conserve water: City of Alvin, City of Baytown, City of Clear Lake Shores, City of Conroe, City of Dayton, City of Deer Park, City of Dickinson, City of El Lago, City of Friendswood, City of Galveston, City of Hitchcock, City of Houston, City of Humble, City of Katy, City of Kemah, City of La Marque, City of La Porte, City of League City, City of Missouri City, City of Nassau Bay, City of Pasadena, City of Pearland, City of Richmond, City of Santa Fe, City of Seabrook, City of Sugarland, Texas City, The Woodlands Township, and City of Webster.

Cities and Townships not included in the above list that are interested in participating in the Challenge are encouraged to contact Galveston Bay Foundation at 281-332-3381.

The Houston Cities H2O Challenge is a product of the Texas Living Waters and funded through the Houston Endowment grant.

About Texas Living Waters Project

The Texas Living Waters Project is a collaboration between National Wildlife Federation, Sierra Club the Lone Star Chapter and Galveston Bay Foundation – to transform the way we manage water so there will be enough for our wildlife, our economy and our kids. Forever. Through this partnership we advocate for balanced, science-based approaches to managing our limited supplies of fresh water. For more information, visit www.texaslivingwaters.org.
